For those considering getting some Distance Healing work, Do Not Delay any further, It works.

Last night I had my first distant healing session with Adrian Lymie VanKeuren and quite honestly, I did not know what to expect or how it worked. You need to know that I am a skeptic as well as a seasoned investigative journalist. Nevertheless, my relationship with Adrian has been quite revealing that there are natural and unnatural forces surrounding us that with guidance and openness we can benefit using.

I am dealing with a deteriorated knee, which is more annoying than painful. Adrian is on travel in the western part of the United States and is willing to share her adventures with Speak Up Community News as a field correspondent. I had no idea Adrian would and could be willing to share her Tai Chi healing services from such a distance or even at all. I had just finished a series of medical treatment for my knee that were disappointing and left me considering a Full Knee Replacement surgery.

Adrian asked if I was willing to try distance healing, immediately I visualized a phone session that would include a "mind over matter" power of suggestion conversion since we were miles apart.

Adrian sent me this text:

"All you need to do is relax and be open. I'll send good energy, and then text you when I'm done. You might fall asleep, depending. I'll let you know any impressions afterward"

I didn't really know what to do except lay down and try to relax. I cleared my mind and tried to visualize something like a "Vulcan Mind Melt" link with her, after abandoning that notion and since I am not completely ignorant about yoga, I just laid on my side taking "mindful breathes". I was feeling very tranquil and started to feel the hair around my knee rising and I am not exaggerating, I accepted this as the distance healing connection and just relaxed. I apparently dozed off and was awoken by a text from Adrian informing me that she just finished up and noticed some energy blockage that took her a while to smooth out and to let me know if my knees is less stiff in a day or two.

I text her back that I did actually doze off and confessed about my Vulcan Mind Melt attempt which may have caused the energy blockage and then I went on to inform her about the hair raising experience on my knee and the fact that I got up without having to limp off the stiffness in my knee that was almost chronic. It's the next day after my first Tai Chi Distant Healing session and I feel GREAT especially since I haven't slept more than 5 or 6 hours since going back to work as a teacher doing In-person teaching with pre-school students who keep me on my feet. I rested well having slept over 8 hours the night of receiving the distance healing work, and had a remarkable dream that leaves feeling my head is clear enough to really focus on helping others, at least without the distraction of not resting well.

Don't delay in getting help using distance healing contact:
